Planes crashes on Pahokee Ball Park—Tommy Holden is shown with his "Circus King" engine powered model after it cracked up last Sunday.

Flying enthusiasts who have informally associated to ride their hobby of engine powered model planes gathered last Sunday to "talk shop." Photographed were Frank Glides, Bobby Yokel, John Bennett Cruthird, Bob Mills, Jimmy Holden, Stephen Yokel, John Ogle and Raymond Mills from Pahokee, and A. J. Pruitt and Mr. Barlow from Belle Glade.

P 51's And Yak 9's Land At City Ball Park

PAHOKEE — P 51's and Yak 9's are landing almost every evening on Pahokee ball park. In fact Tommy Holden's Circus King crashed on Sunday suffering extensive damage.

These model aircraft are part of the "wing" of the Flying Club.

Born of service-connected interest and one man's desire to share his hobby, the Flying Club started in Frank Glides' garage when he got back from active duty and sought an interesting spare time pursuit. Actually the club has not officially adopted that name but Flying Club serves at present to identify the Pahokee and Belle Glade participants in the building and flying of powered model air craft. Imagination, balsa wood, glue and a motor that weighs less than 7 oz. went into Jimmy Holden's "Wildcat" model which is fairly typical of the many styles of airplanes in the Glides garage.

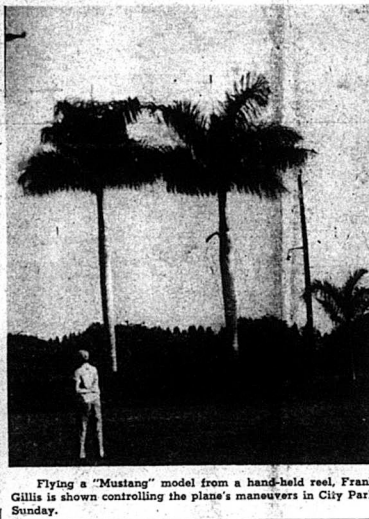

Silk for span cover (wing) comes from silk scarves that are usually worn as babushkas. Light, strong and durable, silk is more resilient and less likely to be damaged than paper. Fuselages favored by John Bennett Cruthird and Stephen Yokel, two other enthusiasts, are balsa wood profiled to represent the "Mustang" or other combat type planes.

Semi-diesel engines, powered with methanol alcohol, or nitro propane, or castor oil mixtures are the size of a large spool and equipped with a spark plug no larger than a wooden match head. Set for speed, the engine is started and not further regulated after flight begins.

Called "U-control stunt" flying, the plane travels in a circle around hand-held reel. From the reel the wing flaps are raised or lowered and the tail mechanism adjusted while the plane is speeding at 60 to 80 miles per hour around the hobbyist's head in addition to flights controlled by reel there are "free flights" and "radio controlled models." John T. Picchetti, Jr. is a devotee of the free flight-form in which the plane is aloft and at maximum speed for about 10 seconds. There are as yet no radio controlled models in the Glades area.

Other enthusiasts are A. J. Pruitt and Mr. Barlow from Belle Glade, and Roy Stamps, William Weathers, Kenny McIntosh, Wendell Harris, and Howard Holman from the Pahokee area.

The total value of cattle in Florida is more than 180 million dollars.

Flying a "Mustang" model from a hand-held reel, Frank Glides is shown controlling the plane's maneuvers in City Park Sunday.

Migrant Schooling Special Project Getting Under Way

Because the Glades area is more aware of its annual migrant influx than most other areas of the U.S., Miss Elizabeth Sutton of the national Migrant Research Project Board, this week began her work here on the first pilot program to help give migrant children a better education.

Her arrival to work as supervisor of migrant education with the approval of the Palm Beach County Board of Public Instruction is the culmination of a survey project begun here nearly two years ago by Rev. Shirley E. Greene.

Local Cooperation
With the cooperation and interest of Glades local committees, school officials, teachers, and other groups working with migrants, Rev. Mr. Greene wrote a series of recommendations on improving the lot of migrant children.

He returned to the Glades to make his report to the schools and then set out to obtain funds to conduct the pilot project here.

Miss Sutton, who has had nine years' experience in program instruction in mountainous, rural Breathitt County, Ky., was selected by the Migrant board to conduct the new project in migrant education in Palm Beach County and in Northampton County, Va.

Miss Sutton was approved by the school boards of the respective counties, and she will work in cooperation with the boards. Her salary is paid by funds contributed by the Doris Duke Foundation, the National Sharecroppers Fund, and the Alliance for the Guidance of Rural Youth.

Outstanding Record
A plaid young woman with an outstanding record for work in Kentucky with the rural instruction program, Miss Sutton is as new to migrant work as the pilot program is to the school board. Her work in rural Kentucky, however, covered just such problems as migrant children face in the Glades—retarded education, spotty school officials with little familiarity with school needs and teachers, little family life.

Interviewed at the home of Miss Sara Lee Creech, of Belle Glade, where she is staying, Miss Sutton reported that one source, unfamiliar with school problems as migrant children face in the Glades, is the school board. Her work in rural Kentucky, however, covered just such problems as migrant children face in the Glades—retarded education, spotty school officials with little familiarity with school needs and teachers, little family life.

Principal Frank Hobson, is continuing on this area. Mrs. Wilson was called upon for her second such ceremony in recent months, although she has been an NP for three years and has not until recently administered the marriage vows. Saturday morning, Lester Pryor Williams, of Belle Glade, and Carrie Lee Edge, Tampa, came to Canal Point to ask Bardin to marry them. His official JP papers have not yet come back from Tallahassee, so his daughter took over.

Mrs. Nancy Ellen Hatfield of Canal Point is one of more than 800 of Florida's school lunch personnel from 57 counties taking part in the statewide training program on the campus of Florida State University in Tallahassee August 1-6.

Television Topic At Lions Meet

Transmission differences between radio and television and the electronics of TV sets and their equipment were the topics of a talk given by Mr. J. S. Barwick at the Lions Club on Tuesday.

Mathis illustrated his talk with overhead transparencies, part of television sets, and blackboard drawings to make clear to the laymen the peculiarities inherent in each installation of a TV set for this area.

Lion President Ralph Johnson announced that next Tuesday's meeting will be cancelled, and in its place an outdoor fish fry will be held at J & S Park with serving to begin at 5:30 p.m.

Lions who will not be able to go on the outing may register Tuesday with the club secretary at the Woman's Club in order to keep up the club's attendance rank.

GAINS SEEN FOR '55 BUDGET

BELLE GLADE — Revenues from the city departments estimated will increase from this year's total of $336,325 for building, fire, jail, and stockade, police, recreation and golf course departments and miscellaneous income to $344,372 in 1954-55, City Manager Tom Carle reported to the City Commission meeting Wednesday night.

First reading of the 1954-55 budget was held over until a special session last night, at which time Mayor Rabin and Commissioners Carlton, Ingram, Close and Ashley sat as a board of equalization to assess the tax roll for the coming fiscal year and continued to review departmental increases and decreases proposed in the estimates compiled by Mayor Rabin.

Two administrative sessions were taken by the Commission Wednesday.

The first authorized City Attorney Claude Jones to proceed against Almax and Rader property in order to see that order of the city commission are carried out. Inasmuch as the injunction order now pending before the court was filed between commission meetings this formality was required. The second authorized City Clerk Frank Belle Glade Community administrative account in the Florida National Bank at Belle Glade for deposit of all monies received daily to expedite a subsequent breakdown into specific accounts.

Request of the local softball team for subsidization by the city of its light bill was answered by Mayor Rabin who said "Send me the bill and I'll pay it."

Question of what action was being taken to put the clinic at the site of the hospital was necessarily deferred until after the Aug. 16 meeting of the hospital board.

The commission agreed to authorize construction of a curb and gutter around the site of the proposed labor loading ramp. Further study on the ramp design is to be made before final action on its construction is taken.

Discussion about a sprayer and duster to be purchased ended with a decision to advertise for a sprayer and duster to clear the way legally for the purchase of one of two machines now under consideration.

Other actions taken on the agenda:

PAID bills outstanding; AUTHORIZED signing of a quit-claim deed based on a correction in an instrument concerning Belle Glade Community Methodist Church;

ADOPTED on second reading an ordinance pertaining to the grade for SW 12th St.

PHA Has Good Yr.

PAHOKEE — A warm discussion of a Congressional proposal to transfer title of housing camps from the federal government to the cities concerned, and a bright financial report highlighted the annual meeting of Pahokee Housing Authority, Inc. this week.

Executive Director James Vann reported to Board Members Albert Fremd, L. J. Fraser, J. F. Waddell, Robert Chamberlain, and Carmen Salvatore, sr. that the PHA bank balance was better than it had been the past three or four years at this time with an end-of-year bank balance of $26,740.61, more than $5,000 over that of last year.

A proposal that PHA endorse the proposition of California farm representatives to turn all public housing camps over to local authorities met with strenuous opposition from Chamberlain and Salvatore, and although the majority appeared to favor the idea, the proposal was tabled until a future meeting.

Sims, Hooper Honored

The annual achievement award went jointly to E. D. Sims, jr., manager of Everglades Camp, and T. A. Hooper, manager of Canal Point Camp. Sims collected $100.87 of rentals due, the average coming as a result of past-due collections. This is the second award for Sims, who in 1950 was recognized for collection of 100% of rentals. Hooper honored this year for contributing more to the reserve than either of the other camps, with a net income at Canal Point camp of $889.65 to the reserve. Hooper's operating expense was $24,770.37, and income $31,970.62 resulting in the net for the reserve.

Total income for the three camps for the year just ended was $11,411.41, with operating expense of $106,881.98, or a net income of $4,736.25, Vann reported.

PHA Dollar

He listed the disposition of each $1 of income for the PHA fiscal year 1953-54 as follows:

Salaries	$0.185
Other management expense	.022
Water	.151
Electricity	.019
Food & heating supplies	.253
Labor	.201
Materials	.054
Contract Work	.016
Collection Losses	.011
Miscellaneous	.041
Provision for reserves	.100

In other actions, the board: REFERRED to Mayor Lewis Friend, without recommendation, the matter of a new or replacement appointment to fill an expiring term of Salvatore.

DEFERRED the question of a new salary schedule for the staff of the PHA.

DEFERRED election of new officers.

W. HAL HUNTER TO LEAVE

PAHOKEE BAPTIST PASTORATE

PAHOKEE — For nearly three years Rev. W. Hal Hunter has been the pastor of the Pahokee First Baptist Church. During this period of his ministry the church has outgrown its old edifice and has extended its community service. Now the new church building is rising as an inspiring monument to Rev. Mr. Hunter's pastoral devotion.

On Sunday evening, Rev. Mr. Hunter will give his pastoral call a call which came to him from the First Baptist Church in Crestview, Florida on the 1st of August. Without his seeking or knowledge the Crestview Baptist pulpit committee decided to offer him the pastorate of their church, Rev. Mr. Hunter said.

Rev. Mr. Hunter said in his letter to his congregation that he and his family sought an answer to this proposal from the only sure and trustworthy source. He continued, "We believe that God has given a clear and unmistakable call to the First Baptist Church, Crestview, and I, therefore, must submit my resignation as your pastor to answer this call of God, effective August 31, 1954."

During the past three years the Sunday School attendance has climbed from 447 to 599, the church membership is now 597 and was 487 and the church income has increased $15,000 over the budget of three years ago, according to Rev. Mr. Hunter.

SWEATING OUT THE STORK: Most nervous man in Washington is Congressman Syd Herlong. Lately he has developed a noticeable habit of rubbing his hands together all of the time and constantly looking at his watch. Any day now, if not already, Syd is about to become a grandfather for the first time. His colleagues on the Hill are almost as anxious for news from Florida as they are from the various elections around the country. Oh, yes, the expectant mother is "little" Mary Alice and the forgotten father is A. G. Stettin, Jr., Okla. lawyer.

JUNIOR G-MAN: Did you ever shoot a genuine "tommy-gun" Blair Culpepper, who will be a senior and an end on the football team at Leon High School in Tallahassee next year ran a "fair" score with one of those fast shooting guns the other day. He was special guest at the FBI exhibition range here last week. Blair was on vacation and sightseeing with his dad, Dr. J. B. Culpepper, executive secretary of the Florida Board of Control. The special agent in charge of the range gave young Culpepper a brief lesson in how to handle the G-man's most famous weapon and then let him loose on a life-sized target which Blair took home with him as his souvenir.

NOW GIRL POLITICIANS: The girls took over last week. The American Legion sponsored "Girls' Nation" held for here all over town. Representatives from Florida were Jan King, Plant City, who served as a House of Representatives member at Tallahassee; and Najmie Boque, 106 Zamora Ave., Coral Gables, who was state treasurer for Florida. No question but because when seen both young ladies were so excited they were speechless.

HEARD ROUND THE WORLD: When Congressman Bob Sikes introduced a resolution calling for the resignation of President Eisenhower the go-ahead sign to recognize Germany as a sovereign nation, the world's media went wild. The State Department thought so much of his speech that his remarks were made a part of the Voice of America broadcast. Sikes said he thought such a step would help strengthen the defenses of Western Europe. He said he thought that France and Italy are dragging their feet on the EDC program and said he hoped the President would take immediate steps to put his plan to work.

GALLERY GAZERS: Seated in the gallery of the Senate the other day with Mrs. Holland was Luther Chandler, of Gouls. Both were enjoying the four hour speech by Senator George who as he battled for his ideas on the farm bill. Chandler, recently named to the Central and South Florida Flood Control Board was in town representing the Fruit and Vegetable Growers of Florida. His chief interest was in checking on how his famed "Golden Rule Amendment" was making out. Mrs. Holland often visits the gallery when the Senator is scheduled to speak.

FAMILIAR PLACES: Col. R. H. Betts, retired USA, retired, long-time "private-eye." Former head of an intelligence unit in France during World War II, he was here on "old Army business," he said. Betts will be remembered by some as a back-scene operator in the Florida Senate as a supporter of Fuller Warren and more recently of Charley Johns. . . . And Chris Constantine, Sarasota dentist, visiting his daughter, Carmin C., who Mrs. Ray Wilkinson, whose husband is a Navy lieutenant in the

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

By Sen. George Smathers

WASHINGTON—Members of the Senate recently have had occasion to ponder the mystery "The Lost Weekend," as we move spasmodically toward completion of the year's legislative work. So much time was lost recently that the schedule was abandoned sometime ago, and there is no certain date for adjournment even as this is being written.

The unexpected, prolonged filibuster on the Atomic Energy Bill made it apparent that the July 31 closing date would not be met, and a week later, it appeared that the filibuster on the McCarthy issue has indefinitely prolonged the session. GEORGE J. MCCARTHY: Few issues have stirred the Senate as has that involving the conduct of the junior senator from Wisconsin. Likewise, it has spread throughout the land, and disturbed our citizens everywhere. As evidence, I have received within recent days communications on the subject, which 103 oppose McCarthy and 108 support him. Senator Herlong told the other night that his 98 communications were precisely divided, 49 each pro and con. I do not know of anything which could be so closely divisive.

Obviously, I am moved by the occurrences and have formed definite opinions regarding aspects of this question. But the resolve of each Senator now must be to maintain an open mind until full report is made upon the facts, as will be done. We were forcibly reminded of the other night by Senator Walter George, who said: "By way of a censure, it sits in the capacity of a judicial tribunal. The Senate can be so moved upon the facts, as will be done. All the power we have comes from the Constitution itself, and if we cut loose from that power, we have no power at all. The inherent power of every voluntary organization . . . to preserve order . . . so there is no doubt that the House is the partake of the nature of a judicial inquiry, leading to a judicial decision . . . according to the highest standards of jurisprudence, the chief function of every judicial tribunal is to preserve the rights of the one man against 99."

Senator George's words carry especial weight with us. He not only has the reputation of being the greatest length of service, and is the most respected of all senators. He also has said many times as much as I judge.

OUR FARM AMENDMENTS: One of the most important pieces of legislation of this Congress is the new farm bill which carries two major amendments supported by the Florida delegation on behalf of the fruit and vegetable industries of our state. One is the "Halo" or "Golden Rule" amendment which would permit importation of limes, avocados, grapefruit and tomatoes but which would apply to these imports the same grade, size, quality and maturity regulations applied to our own produce under the Marketing Agreement Act.

The other amendment would permit for the first time the bringing under the Marketing Agreements program of processing, but only if a majority of the processors approve, or favor such inclusion.

Congressman Syd Herlong made a great—and successful—fight to get these provisions included in this bill when the Senate voted upon the measure.

Western Hemisphere Gains: Scores of Floridians have written in the "Golden Rule" amendment, in the Mutual Security Bill, the appropriations to Latin America, and by an overwhelming vote, and have a positive desire to shift these "Good Neighbor" nations more of the emphasis in

RY SCHATZI

Boy, it is good to be home! It is so good to be back that I let the bosses haul Lisa and me away from our bed the other evening to a place a couple of blocks away that they call Bitt and Burr's.

I call it heaven, because first thing, Lisa and I got to eat some ice cream left from dinner. Well, acting just like people, the bosses and Bitt and Burr sat down to talk, first turning on the television set so that nobody knew who was talking to whom anyhow.

And that is where Lisa got into trouble.

For a dog who's more than a year old now, you'd think she'd have better sense.

It seems almost impossible to, in our journeyings around, Lisa has never seen television.

So there she is the other night, and the minute these strange black-and-white people appeared on the TV screen she started to growl. If she hadn't been such a coward, she'd have gone up to the set and found out the people are perfectly all right and never come out of the box.

Then she started to bark, and I couldn't talk, my ears far enough to avoid having this kind of conglomerate sound from Lisa, TV, and four people.

"John! (bark) You can't leave me for that (bark) other (bark) back through Oak (bark) Ridge" . . . without (bark) the soft, except for an occasional peek around the corner.

Well, finally we quieted Lisa down. She wouldn't take "Hush" for an answer, though, and spent the rest of the evening sulking behind the sofa, except for an occasional peek around the corner.

When she heard a couple of the commercials, she didn't even bother to peek.

I had been hoping that eventually the bosses would break down and get me a TV set, so that I could enjoy the dog dog programs.

Lisa's idiotic behavior has, I fear, strengthened their resolve to stick to radio and records.

And I'll just have to go on reading and thinking.

Dear Schatzi: Now that you and Lisa have returned from points where you can smell out your own news and will not have to depend on me for local notes from all over.

One of my reasons for crawling out is that only today I discovered that my skeleton is completely ossified. Another factor prompting my decision is that our worldwide security and anti-Communist program. The vote in the Senate was a great satisfaction to me because so many of my colleagues, both Democrat and Republicans, openly join me in my fight. I have been making for so long. The vote was 86 to 2, and I am convinced that at least, one of these votes was due to a misunderstanding of the issue.

It is apparent that this vote already has had a salutary effect not only in the Executive Departments, but along Embassy Row.

ROBSERVATIONS

By BENJAMIN S. ROBERTS

Foreign policy cannot be based upon utopia of dreams of perfection. To be successful, it must be founded on a realistic estimate of possibilities, not of high-sounding declarations. High sounding declarations have as much relation to foreign policy as cheer leading to quarterbacking.

The foregoing is expressed in Charles Marshall's new book "THE LIMITS OF FOREIGN POLICY."

In 1933 the president of Hollins College was "troubled by his students' shifty foundation for judgment about some of the most serious questions of our day." He asked Marshall to give lectures to students to provide them needed background. The book is the result of this series.

The central theme of the book is not palatable to many Americans but it is realistic, it is this, that our character and historic experience tend to make us look at the outside world as if it were a province subject to direct American influence. We have the idea that a crisis in some far off part of the globe should be resolved because of action of our own Department of State.

Too often our estimate of what another country must do is based on what we would do ourselves if the situation occurred here. The fact is that other resources and experience, their people and their heritage make solutions highly impracticable.

The German Chancellor Bismarck, in the last century, had an expression, "the art of not being the next best . . ." which was not a plea for abandoning ideals but rather an acceptance of reality instead of dreams.

These are but a few of the areas requiring a realistic approach. Here is where quarterbacking rather than cheerleading as expressed by Marshall can mean the difference between success and failure in our foreign policy.

STORM SAFETY

During a thunderstorm the dangerous places for a person to be is in the middle of a field away from all trees. Another spot that seems to invite lightning is a wooden boat in a large expanse of water.

A single tree is more likely to draw lightning than a number of them standing together. It is unwise to lean against an isolated tree. When other shelter is not available, it is probably safer under the tree but one should sit several feet from the trunk, not stand.

During a lightning storm, the farmer plowing his field with a tractor should not continue to sit on it. He is safer under the machine and it is wise not to lean against the tractor if at all possible.

One should not go out of doors or remain out during a thunderstorm unless it is necessary. Stay inside a building where it is dry, preferably away from chimneys, fireplaces, stoves and other metal objects.

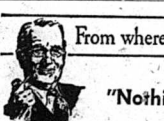

If remaining out of doors is unavoidable, keep away from small sheds and shelters if they are in an exposed location; isolated trees, wire fences, hill tops and open fields.

Seek shelter in a ditch or other depression in the ground, a dense woods or a grove of trees.

If there is a choice of shelter during the storm, the safer places are an automobile, a large metal or metal frame building. Next would be a dwelling or some other structure that is protected against lightning, then a large unoccupied building and lastly a small unprotected building.

When trees around a dwelling are higher than the house itself, lightning may discharge through them, but when the house stands above the trees, it seems this causes lightning to be attracted to the house.

Pointed lightning rods, yet seen on many of the older, taller homes, are effective against sudden, natural discharges of electricity. They conduct it to the ground and safely from the house.

"Nothing to Sneeze At"

This year our town decided to do something about its hay-fever sufferer. Hap Thomas is our health officer, so he was named "Inspector."

"Can't see why anybody should be bothered by a few weeds," he sneezed. "I say it's all in their minds." But Hap went on out to do his job.

Then, yesterday, I met Hap—looking kind of sheepish. His eyes were red and as he took out a big handkerchief, he sneezed.

"Know somebody who isn't allergic, who'd like a job?" asks Hap.

From where I sit, I can sympathize with Hap. It's no joke. But as Hap admitted later, he was dead wrong in scoffing at the idea of hay fever. Making light of other people's ideas and opinions is a familiar trouble with a lot of folks. Whether it's hay fever, football or a choice of, say, butter-milk or beer as a third, quencher, I'm just naturally "allergic" to anybody who "knows-it-all!"

Be SAFE This Summer—ASWIM and Afloat

Don't stand in your boat when starting the motor. Look out ahead when you start—another boat may be passing or landing nearby.

Gasoline fumes are exceedingly flammable. It's not smart to smoke near an old-style open can of fuel. Only a modern safety-can is recommended for carrying gas. Give swimmers a wide berth. Horseplay on your part may prove tragic and you can be held liable for such accidents. YOUR outboarding should be fun, not fatal. The American Red Cross offers suggestions, given above, how you can stay out of trouble.
